In the Big Sticks—Kay See Agent at Silsbee Held and Robbed.

The latest clever work in the way of a hold up and robbery occurred at Silsbee about two o'clock yesterday morning, two smooth robbers carrying away between them four hundred dollars, without leaving a clue to their identity.

The agent at Silsbee is W. W. White, a trusted employee, possessing the confidence of all the people of that place. This story is that about 2 o'clock Monday morning, some one came to his home and told him that General Manager John H. Kirby was at the office and wanted to see him. Without questioning his informant, Mr. White went to the office and on arriving there two revolvers were leveled on him and he was forced to open the safe and deliver the contents. Just what amount was secured cannot be positively stated, but it was somewhere between three and four hundred dollars. White says that the man who came to his house must have masked afterward as there were only two men. Just as soon as he felt that he dared to leave the office he went out and awakened some of the citizens and informed them of what had occurred, but there was no chance to apprehend the robbers. J. W. Hawley, traveling auditor, who went to Silsbee yesterday to investigate, says that the loss to the Kay See will not exceed $30, but the agent thought there might have been $300 belonging to the Wells-Fargo Express Co.; the amount could not be stated until the books were checked up. At first consideration the story does not seem very plausible, but Mr. Hawley says that he is thoroughly convinced that the agent is telling the truth and that all the people of Silsbee believe his story. It is explained that the plan to rob an out-of-the-way place like Silsbee was a very clever one and that it was perfectly natural that the agent would hasten to see what the general manager wanted, without asking questions.

This morning the speaking was at the fair grounds. The speakers arrived at 9:25 and were greeted with stupendous applause from 25,000 people assembled to hear the distinguished visitors. ### FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED.

A freight wreck occurred last night about 11 o'clock one mile this side of Sour Lake, caused by the train breaking in two, the rear end running into the front part, derailing two cars loaded with lumber and injuring three persons, the conductor, one brakeman and a tramp. The train was number 246 in charge of Conductor Painter, who had an arm broken while helping release brakeman Stewart from a pile of lumber, the latter having both legs broken and receiving other injuries which it is feared will cause his death. Mayor Wheat, who was on the east bound Southern Pacific passenger train, rendered what assistance he could, and says that he thought the train who was injured could not live until he reached Houston, as he had both legs broken and his breast was crushed.

PLANNING JOINT OPERATION.

Superintendent H. S. Spangler of the Gulf and Interstate is in the city today consulting with John H. Kirby relative to the proposed joint operation of the two roads. To a reporter for the Daily Enterprise Mr. Spangler said that it was difficult to say just when the joint operation would begin but somewhere about the tenth inst., probably a few days after. As to the schedule and the lay-over for the crews, that was still under consideration, but it was probable that most of the layover of the train crews would be in Beaumont. From that that could be learned it appears that this city will be very much benefited by the joint operation of the two roads.
